Simple exercises in which a chord is played and the singer attempts to select one of the notes to sing i. Hearing positive feedback from others is also helpful. Be sure that each note on the higher part of the exercise is well produced before moving up to the next key.

Try to keep all the non-playing fingers on the keys, lightly. The up-stroke is a stroke which moves away from the surface quickly after striking it. If rhythm is so important, what guidance can one use, in order to cultivate it?

I have one very young student who used to consistently go flat around B3 the Bin players use a number of bowing terms which we list below: bowing terms. Up-strokes are used for various articulations and to place an instrument into vibration quickly.
